What do you think about the login interface?, as you mentioned in a previous interview we add Google Sign In. Is it ok with you? Can you click the create tab What do you think about the signup page? Can you go back to login page can you click the login submit button and click the profile button up there

What do you think about the profile page and the details there? From the profile interface you can update or delete your profile. Is it ok or do you need to change anything ? can you click the my ads in navigation bar

What do you think about the my ads interface where you can separately find your vehicle's ads and spare parts ads?

What do you think about the sign up page? Do you think it's in enough detail on it or do you need to add something, what your opinion. Can you click the login tab and click the profile icon

What do you think about the login page? We have added google sign in to what you think about this form.can you click the login button

This is the form that you can update profile details. What do you think about this? Do you need to change anything beyond this. Can you click my ads in the navigation bar?

Users can see his advertisement from here. If he wants to see an advertisement he can click the vehicle or spare parts. What do you think about cart one advertisement details? Is there enough details on it?

- Member 02 - Weerasinghe G. G. D. D (IT19075204)

As the very first task you can view the category list and see how the design affects your user experience, We have redesigned the category list to have a more vertical approach. What do you think about this modern user interface? We can move on to the next step and see a search bar above the table. In addition to the older UI , there's a search bar to easily find the category name along with the filters. What are your thoughts about this functionality?

We can move to the update page. Please click on the update button in one of the categories, So on this page there's an input field to enter vehicle names. This is a searchable component and instead of adding 1 by 1 users can add all at once , what do you think about this functionality?

Do you think that this is going to improve user experience as well.What do you think about the overall interface ?We can go back to the category list by clicking the update user button.

Let's move on to the next step. Can you click on the delete category button ? What do you think about using a modal to ask if the user is sure about deleting the category?

Does this modal make the user experience more complicated or friendly?

Is there anything that you would like to change here ?

Can you go back to the category list ? Is there anything in here that you would like to change here?

- Member 03 - Chandrasena A. S (IT19075136)

As the very first task, let's assume you are going to view the ads list page and use the filter to sort out your intended vehicle Navigate to all ads,So, please click on all ads tab at the top, here you have the ads list page and the blue color icon for the filter at the top right next to the search bar. Did you notice it as a filter? Click on it. Do you think you have all the desired filtering options there?

Now, close the filter. Do you think this ads list page is well arranged and each ad card contains all the details that are needed for you? Do you think it is better if we include a slider for each ad card to navigate through the images from here itself?

Let's move onto the next step, click on the first advertisement in the list. So, here in this detail page we have all the information on the vehicle. Specifications are separated and more details is the section where you can see the custom description by the seller. At the top image slider is there with the zoom option. Please click on the zoom icon. Do you think it makes sense to you? Close it and in this detail page you have 'call now' and 'send email' button which directs you to the dial pad and email app in your device respectively. At the bottom, this slider displays some of the related ads. So, what do you think about the overall interface? Did you easily go through each functionality provided?

So, next up please click on the post new ad button. This is the place where you can publish your advertisements.We have provided dropdowns as much as possible. Multiple images, phone numbers can be added as well. Do you think this is enough for you to publish an advertisement?

Let's assume you want to update the advertisement you published just now,So, can you tap on my ads tab. Please click on the first advertisement, this interface is much similar to the previous and the fields will be populated with existing data.You can edit all the fields and click on update once you are done. If you do not need the advertisement, you can click on the delete icon which will remove your listing. So, is it understandable and covers everything you need?

As the very last step, tap on the flow 3 and click on login. Here, we are going to approve/reject advertisements published by sellers as an admin user. So, you can use the action buttons provided to approve or reject after previewing the ad using the information button. Furthermore you can select multiple and tap on the ‘bulk approve’ button. So, do you think this is enough for an admin user to manage ads in the system?

Thank you very much for your valuable feedback. We'll make the changes you suggested.

- Member 04 - Dilshan K.G.T (IT19020822)

Hey I am responsible for this Riyapola app to the spare parts management section. So as you can see this is the first impression when a user comes to the spare parts ads page. According to clients requirements I have removed the filter form from the item view page and made it as a modal, once the user clicks the filter item he/she will be able to filter items according to its conditions. Before moving to the filter I like to know what you think about this all spare parts view page?

Okay, as I mentioned earlier you can click on the filter icon which is at the top of the page and filter them. Can you check it out? Is there anything else that we added more to filter the results according to your point of view?

From the very beginning interface results cards you can only view some restricted information of all ads. If you want to see the advertisements in detail you have to click on the particular advertisement and get inside that adview. Can you click on an advertisement and get into that single view page?

As same as the vehicle single adview all the details related to the spares parts advertisements you will be able to see in this interface. More likely I have obtain a table view to containing all the specification and more details, even though having this as it is can you suggest us a very good eye catching view to assign them in order to get a better understand?

All the phone and email buttons are directed to the dial pad and email app to proceed the contact actions. Do you think they will help you contact the seller?

Furthermore I have displayed all the related advertisements sliders at the bottom of the screen. What do you think about that?

As the next step we can move to post sparepart advertisements. So to do that we have to click on the ‘POST NEW AD’ link which is at the top of the nav bar . Please can you go to that location? So, from here you will be able to publish your advertisement related to spare parts. Can you please go through the form and confirm if all the required fields are available once you add your advertisement? Otherwise is there anything else that I can add?

Let assume you have published your advertisement, once you publish it won't appear in the list but you will be able to see the ads that you have already published and in the pending state in the user ‘My Ads’ field so can you get in there? As you can see there are two kinds of advertisements. You can see the newly posted spare parts ads once you click on the spare parts tab and from there you can click any advertisements and edit. Can you perform that task?

Okay, After clicking that advertimet you will be directed into this update form and you will be able to see all the details related to the advertisements. If you want you can update or delta them using this view? Is this good enough or anything else?

As the final step can you log in as an admin and get to the admin area? So once you log in you will be able to see vehicle and spare parts current ads that want to approve and already approved once, to get into the spare parts section you can click on the spare part tab, this simply show the advertisements which are pending and already approved once also admin can goes to bulk approve if he/she has more advertisements to approve by using one single button click.

Thank you, that is all from my side. Thank you for your valuable feedback. It helps me to improve this riyapola application.
